PREFACE.

In preparing this little work, the Editor has been actuated by a desire to render the study of the Greek language attractive, especially to beginners, and gradually to initiate them into an acquaintance with its construction. To this end, he has so arranged the work, classifying the verbs, and interweaving into the different examples nouns of the several declensions, as to give to the student a gradual insight into the structure of the language.

The Notes have been prepared with great care, and contain numerous references to the grammars of Sophocles, Hadley, and Crosby. The references at the bottom of the page are to the Epitome of Greek Grammar which forms a part of the work.

In the Vocabulary all the words in the Greek text, with their appropriate meanings, will be found.

Digitized by Google

The Epitome of Greek Grammar contains all that is necessary for a beginner in his earlier endeavors in the acquisition of the language.

Indeed, it is believed that a student, with this little volume in his hand, may, by his own unaided efforts, make considerable progress in the study of the Greek.

NEW YORK, June, 1864.

EPITOME OF GREEK GRAMMAR.

PART I.—Orthography.

THE ALPHABET.

§ 1. 1. The Greek Alphabet consists of the following twenty-four letters, viz.:

Form.		Name.		Roman.
Α	α	Ἄλφα	Alpha	a
Β	β	Βῆτα	Beta	b
Γ	γ	Γάμμα	Gamma	g
Δ	δ	Δέλτα	Delta	d
Ε	ε	Ἔ ψιλόν	Epsilon	ĕ
Ζ	ζ	Ζῆτα	Zeta	z
Η	η	Ἦτα	Eta	ē
Θ	ϑ, θ	Θῆτα	Theta	th
Ι	ι	Ἰῶτα	Iota	i
Κ	κ	Κάππα	Kappa	k or c hard

Form.		Name.		Roman.
Ρ	ρ	Ῥῶ	Rho	r
Σ	σ, ς	Σίγμα	Sigma	s
Τ	τ	Ταῦ	Tau	t
Υ	υ	Υ̓͂ ψῑλόν	Upsilon	u or y
Φ	φ	Φῖ	Phi	ph
Χ	χ	Χῖ	Chi	ch
Ψ	ψ	Ψῖ	Psi	ps
Ω	ω	Ὦ μέγα	Omega	ō

2. The letters are divided into vowels and consonants.

§ 2. The following are the Greek diphthongs: αι, αυ, ει, ευ, οι, ου, υι.

§ 3. The rough breathing (῾), corresponding to h, or the smooth breathing (᾽), is placed over every Greek word beginning with a vowel; also over ρ at the commencement of a word: and if ρ is doubled in the middle of a word, the first one takes the smooth breathing, and the second the rough.

§ 4. Accent (stress of voice) is of three forms, the acute (΄), which can stand only on one of the last three syllables; the circumflex (῀ or ῁), only on one of the last two; and the grave (`), only on the last.

§ 5. The following punctuation marks are used: the comma (,), the colon (·), the period (.), interrogation (;), and exclamation (!).

PART II.—ETYMOLOGY.

NOUNS.

§ 6. 1. Nouns have three declensions; the first, second, and third.

2. They have three numbers; the singular, dual, and plural.

3. The genders are three; the masculine, feminine, and neuter.

4. The cases are five, namely, Nominative, Genitive, Dative, Accusative, and Vocative.

First Declension.

§ 7. 1. The following are the terminations of the first declension:

		Masc.	Fem.
Sing.	Nom.	ας, ης	α, η
	Gen.	ου	ας, ης
	Dat.	ᾳ, ῃ	ᾳ, ῃ
	Acc.	αν, ην	αν, ην
	Voc.	α, η	α, η
		Masc. and Fem.
Dual.	N. A. V.	α
	G. D.	αιν
		Masc. and Fem.
Plur.	Nom.	αι
	Gen.	ων
	Dat.	αις
	Acc.	ας
	Voc.	αι

Digitized by Google

2. By adding these terminations to the roots of nouns of the first declension, we may easily form and inflect its various words.

Second Declension.

§ 8. The following are the terminations of the second declension:

		Masc. and Fem.	Neut.
Sing.	Nom.	ος	ον
	Gen.	ου	ου
	Dat.	ῳ	ῳ
	Acc.	ον	ον
	Voc.	ε	ον
		All Genders.
Dual.	N. A. V.	ω
	G. D.	οιν
		Masc. and Fem.	Neut.
Plur.	Nom.	οι	α
	Gen.	ων	ων
	Dat.	οις	οις
	Acc.	ους	α
	Voc.	οι	α

Third Declension.

§ 9. The terminations of the third declension are as follows;

Digitized by Google

		Masc. and Fem.	Neut.
Sing.	Nom.	-ς (or vowel lengthened)	(naked stem)
	Gen.	-ος
	Dat.	-ῐ
	Acc.	-ᾰ or -ν	"
	Voc.	(like Nom. or Neut.)	"
Dual.	N. A. V.	ε
	G. D.	οιν
Plur.	Nom.	-ες	ᾰ
	Gen.	-ων
	Dat.	-σῐ(ν)
	Acc.	-ας	ᾰ
	Voc.	-ες	ᾰ

ADJECTIVES.

§ 10. 1. Adjectives, as nouns, have gender, number, and case, and are inflected like them.

2. Participles, also, are included under adjectives, and are inflected like them.

3. Adjectives are of three, two, or one set of endings.

4. Adjectives have the following terminations in the Nom. Sing.:

Three Terminations. M.	F.	N.	Two Terminations. M. and F.	N.	One Termination. All Genders.
-ος	-α, -η,	-ον	-ος	-ον	-ᾱς
					-αρ
					-ῆν
-ας	-αινα	-αν			-ώς
-ας	-ασα	-αν	-ής	-ές	-ις

Three Terminations. M.	F.	N.	Two Terminations. M. and F.	N.	One Termination. All Genders.
					-ξ
-εις	-εσσα	-εν	-ις	-ι	-υς
-εἰς	-εἶσα	-ἐν			-ψ
			-ων	-ον

Adjectives of two terminations and of one are mostly compounds. The stem usually follows the analogy of the primitive.

-ούς	-οῦσα	-όν
-ων	-ουσᾶ	-ον
-ώς	-νῖα	-ός
-ύς	-εῖα	-ύ

5. The feminine, in adjectives of three endings, is always of the first declension; the masculine and neuter are either of the second or third.

6. Adjectives of two endings are of the second or third declension; the feminine is the same as the masculine.

7. Adjectives of one ending are either of the first or third declension. In respect to gender, they are masculine, feminine, or common.

8. Adjectives are regularly compared by adding to the stem of the positive, the termination -τερος for the comparative, and -ταtος for the superlative.*

9. The following are instances of irregular comparison:

* If the penult of the positive be short, ο is changed into ω.—The terminations ιων for the comparative, and ιστος for the superlative, are peculiar to some adjectives.

Positive.	Comparative.	Superlative.
ἀγαθός, good	ἀμείνων	ἄριστος
	βελτίων	βέλτιστος
	κρείσσων or κρείττων	κράτιστος
κακός, bad	κακίων	κάκιστος
	χείρων	χείριστος
	ἧσσων or ἥττων
πολύς, much	πλείων or πλέων	πλεῖστος
μέγας, great	μείζων	μέγιστος
μικρός, small	ἐλάσσων or ελάττων	ἐλάχιστος
καλός, fair	καλλίων	κάλλιστος

NUMERALS.

§ 11. Words which express number, are called numerals, the basis of which are the cardinal numbers, namely, εἷς, δύο, τρεῖς, τέσσαρες, πέντε, ἕξ, ἑπτά, ὀκτώ, ἐννέα, δέκα, εἴκοσι, ἑκατόν, χίλιοι, μύριοι.

S.	N.	ὁ	ἡ	τό	D. N. A.	τώ	τά	τώ	P. N.	οἱ	αἱ	τά
	G.	τοῦ	τῆς	τοῦ	G. D.	τοῖν	ταῖν	τοῖν	G.	τῶν	τῶν	τῶν
	D.	τῷ	τῇ	τῷ					D.	τοῖς	ταῖς	τοῖς
	A.	τόν	τήν	τό					A.	τούς	τάς	τά

§ 15. ὅδε is formed from the article and the demonstrative ending δέ: it is declined like the article, with δε added to each form.

§ 16. Interrogative and Indefinite Pronouns. These are alike in all respects but accent: interrogative, τίς, τί, who? which? what? indefinite, τὶς, τὶ, enclitic, some, any.

		Interrogative.		Indefinite.
Sing.	Nom.	M. F. τίς	N. τί	M. F. τὶς	N. τὶ
	Gen.	τίνος (τοῦ)		τινὸς (τοῦ)

§ 18. Indefinite Relative Pronoun. The indefinite relative pronoun ὅστις, ἥτις, ὅ τι, who, which, is formed by the union of the relative ὅς with the indefinite τὶς, each being separately declined.

§ 19. The other pronouns are declined in a similar manner, and scarcely vary from the terminations of adjectives in -ος, -η, -ον, except in the neuter singular, which has -ο instead of -ον.

VERBS.

§ 20. 1. There are three voices; the active, passive, and middle.

2. There are five moods; the indicative, subjunctive, optative, imperative, and infinitive, to which may be added the participles.

3. The tenses are seven; the present, imperfect, perfect, pluperfect, future, aorist, and future perfect.

4. The aorist, perfect and pluperfect active, and future passive of some primitives are formed by annexing the endings -ον, -ην, -όμην, -α, -ειν, ήσομαι to the root. In order to distinguish them from the regular tenses of the same name, they are commonly designated by the numeral second.

5. The tenses may be divided into two classes, namely, the primary or principal tenses, which are the present, perfect, and future, and the secondary or historical tenses, which are the imperfect, pluperfect, and aorist.

6. There are three persons; the first, second, and third.

7. Verbs also have three numbers; the singular, dual, and plural.

Augment.

§ 21. 1. Augment signifies increase. The tenses that receive it, are, the perfect and future perfect of all the moods and participle, and the imperfect, aorist, and pluperfect of the indicative.

2. It is of two kinds: 1. Syllabic augment, made by prefixing ε. 2. Temporal augment, made by lengthening an initial vowel.

3. The syllabic augment belongs to verbs beginning with a consonant.

4. The temporal augment belongs to verbs beginning with a vowel.

Reduplication.

§ 22. 1. Reduplication consists properly in a repetition of the initial sound. It belongs to the perfect, pluperfect, and future perfect.

2. Verbs beginning with a consonant repeat that consonant with ε.

3. Verbs beginning with a vowel lengthen that vowel.

4. Some verbs, beginning with α, ε, ο, followed by a single consonant, prefix that vowel and consonant; the vowel of the second syllable is then lengthened. This is called Attic reduplication.

Classes of Verbs.

§ 23. 1. Verbs are divided into pure, mute, and liquid, according as the root ends in a vowel, a mute (π, β, φ; κ, γ, χ; τ, δ, θ; also ζ), or a liquid (λ, μ, ν, ρ).

2. The root of a verb consists of those letters which are found in every part of the verb.

3. Pure verbs, ending in αω, εω, and οω, are contracted in the present and imperfect tenses, and hence called pure contract verbs.

4. Verbs in μι, derived from pure verbs, are so called because the first person singular of the indicative active takes the personal ending μι.

5. Verbs having more than one root are regarded as anomalous.

6. A defective verb has only some of its parts in use.

§ 24. Table of Tense-signs:

	Active.	Passive.	Middle.
Future,	σ	θησ	σ
2d Future,	—	ησ	—
Fut. Perf.,	—	σ	σ
1st Aor.,	σ	θ	σ
Perf. and Pluperf.,	κ	—	—

Liquid verbs do not use σ as tense-sign, either in 1st Fut. or 1st Aor.

Connecting Vowels.

§ 25. The vowel which unites the personal ending with the root or characteristic of a verbal form is called the connecting vowel. In the first person of all the numbers, and the third plural of the indicative, it is ο; in all the other persons of the same mood it is ε.

Exc. 1. The perfect active, and aorist active and middle, have α. In the third singular of the perfect and aorist active it is ε.

Exc. 2. The pluperfect active has ει. In the 3d plural it is ει or ε.

Exc. 3. The present and future active lengthen ο into ω in the 1st sing., and ε into ει in the 2d and 3d sing.

Endings.

§ 26. 1. The personal endings of the indicative are,

SYNTAX.

Nominative.

§ 31. The subject of a finite verb is put in the nominative.

§ 32. A verb agrees with its subject-nominative in number and person.

§ 33. The nominative of the neuter plural regularly takes the verb in the singular.

§ 34. A noun or pronoun annexed to another for the purpose of explaining or limiting it, and signifying the same thing, agrees with it in gender, number, and case.

§ 35. 1. An adjective agrees with its substantive in gender, number, and case.

2. This rule applies also to the article, the adjective pronouns, and to the participle.

Genitive.

§ 36. One substantive may have another depending on it in the genitive.

§ 37. Adjectives, pronouns, participles, and adverbs denoting a part, are followed by a genitive denoting the whole.

§ 38. Verbs implying a noun are followed by the genitive.

§ 39. The genitive is used with verbs which signify fulness or the contrary.

Digitized by Google

§ 40. The genitive is used with many verbs which signify an action of the senses or the mind.

§ 41. The genitive after certain verbs and expressions denotes that on account of which anything takes place.

§ 42. The genitive after verbs signifying to be, to belong, denotes most of the relations expressed by the adnominal and partitive genitives.

§ 43. Verbs signifying to seize or to take hold of are often followed by the accusative of the object seized, and the genitive of the part by which it is seized.

§ 44. The genitive is used with a participle to denote time, means, cause, condition, or concession.

§ 45. The comparative degree takes the genitive.

§ 46. Sometimes the genitive denotes the instrument, or the agent after a passive form.

§ 47. The genitive is used with adjectives which correspond, in derivation or meaning, to verbs that take the genitive, especially with adjectives of value.

Dative.

§ 48. The dative is used to denote that to which something is done.

§ 49. The means and mode are put in the dative.

Digitized by Google

§ 50. The dative is used to denote that with which something is or is done.

§ 51. Words of nearness and likeness govern the dative.

§ 52. The dative is used after verbs signifying to be, to denote that to which anything belongs.

Accusative.

§ 53. The direct object of a transitive verb is put in the accusative.

§ 54. Any verb may be followed by the accusative of a noun having a kindred signification.

§ 55. Verbs of asking, teaching, clothing, depriving, and others, may have a double object, usually a person and a thing, both in the accusative.

§ 56. The extent of time and space is put in the accusative.

§ 57. An adjunct applying a word or expression to a particular part, property, thing, or person, is put in the accusative.

§ 58. The same verb often governs two accusatives; as verbs of making, appointing, choosing, esteeming, naming, &c.

PROSODY.

Quantity.

§ 59. 1. By quantity is meant the comparative time occupied in pronouncing a syllable.

Digitized by Google

2. In any Greek word, every syllable is either long or short.

3. When a syllable has a long vowel or diphthong, it is said to be long by nature.

4. A syllable short by nature, if its vowel be followed by two or more consonants, or by ζ, ξ, ψ, is made long by position.

5. Every syllable must be assumed to be short, which cannot be proved long.

NOTES AND REFERENCES.

Lines 1—10. Βουλεύω is a pure verb, because its root βουλεύ ends in a vowel. Its principal parts are, βουλεύω, fut. βουλεύσω, 1st aor. ἐβούλευσα, perf. βεβούλευκα, perf. pass. βεβούλευμαι, 1st aor. pass. ἐβουλεύθην; synopsis, βουλεύω, βουλεύω, βουλεύοιμι, βούλευε, βουλεύειν, βούλεύων; inflection, βουλεύω, βουλεύεις, βουλεύει; βουλεύετον, βουλεύετον; βουλεύομεν, βουλεύετε, βουλεύουσι: its translation, I advise; indic. pres. act., and agrees with its subject nominative ἐγὼ to be supplied in the first person singular: Rule. A finite verb agrees with its subject-nominate in number and person. S. § 150. 1, H. 497. a, C. § 543.——βουλεύει is parsed in the same manner, but is of the third person, agreeing with the corresponding pronoun.——βουλεύομεν. From its termination, we at once see that it is of the first pers. plur., and accordingly agrees with ἡμεῖς.——βουλεύουσιν. The final ν of this verb is called movable ν, and is usually added either at the end of a sentence or when the following word begins with a vowel. S. § 16. 1, H. 78, C. § 66. II. 1.——βουλεύωμεν. This verb occurs in the subjunctive mood. The subjunctive is the mood of probability. The subj. mood is characterized by the vowels ω and η.——βουλεύσοιμι. The σ and the diphthong οι in this verb determine it to be in the future optative. The optative mood is distinguished by the diphthongs αι, ει, οι. The optative is the mood of possibility.——βουλεύομαι consists of the root βουλεύ of the present active and the termination ομαι, which is peculiar both to the passive and middle voices. The voice is determined by the context. In the pass. it means I am advised; in the middle, I advise myself, i. e., I deliberate.——βουλεύεσθε agrees in the second pers. plur. with the pronoun ὑμεῖς.——βουλεύονται agrees with the corresponding pronoun of the third pers. plur.——βουλευσόμεθα is composed of the root βουλεύ, the tense characteristic σ of the future, the connecting vowel ο and the ending μεθα of the first pers. plur., agreeing with ἡμεῖς.

11—20. ἐβουλεύθην is the first aorist ind. pass. of βουλεύω. ——βεβούλευμαι is formed by prefixing the augment, called also reduplication, βε to the root, and adding the termination μαι, to form the perfect indic. pass.——βουλεύεται is in the middle voice and inflected like the corresponding form of the passive.——ἐβουλευόμην is also found in the middle.——ἐβουλεύσαντο is in the 1st aor. mid. ——βουλευσαίμην is 1st aor. optative middle.——Ἐγὼ κελεύω, κ.τ.λ. I command thee to flee with the ships. Ἐγὼ expressed here for the sake of emphasis, is a pronoun of the first pers. and the subject of κελεύω.——σε from σύ, the pronoun of the second pers., is in the acc. and the subject of the infinitive φεύγειν.——ταῖς an article from ὁ, ἡ, τό agreeing with ναυσίν which comes from ναῦς, gen. ναός, dat. plural governed by the preposition σὺν. S. § 231, H. 628. 2, C. § 649. (ζ).——κελεύω σε, κ.τ.λ. For the omission of the subject of this verb, see S. § 152. 1, H. 504. a, C. § 545, 2. α).——νοῦς ἀκούει. The mind hears. νοῦς contracted from νόος is of the second declension. —— Ὁ στρατηγὸς, κ.τ.λ. The general plots against the cities. πόλεσιν dat. plur. of πόλις.
